Proposed Solutions
Solutions proposed were: 1. through the aid of foundations such as the Ford Foundation, programs of graduate study would be set up to improve the quality of teachers. 2. Through efforts of the American Chemical Society, coupled with industry a prize of $1,000 would be given annually to the most outstanding high school chemistry teachers throughout the United States, with all expenses paid to the society's meeting to receive the prize. 3. A foundation to underwrite summer study for teachers.

Teachers Neglected
A number of awards are now given by the society to those who have done outstanding work in chemical research, but the teacher in SAC's end of the field has been neglected. The committee is trying to rectify that," Van Osdall pointed out.

Hawaii is coming to the mainland! Next Friday the Student Union cafeteria will be gaily decorated with a tropical decor for the annual luau presented by Los Caballeros of the Circle K.

The members of the two sponsoring clubs say that it will be the best dance of the year. One of the main attractions will be the trophies which will be awarded to men sporting the "bushiest" beard, the "neatest" beard, and the "scrappiest" beard.

"All the men on campus should start growing their beards now," said Russ Behrens, president of Los Caballeros.

The dance is for couples only and admission price is $1.50 with without Associated Student Card. Dress for the occasion will be Hawaiian. Dancing will continue throughout the evening. A buffet type meal will also be served during the evening.

AC Grad Invites Students To Parley

Robert Canfield, SAC '54, now attending Long Beach State, visited campus today inviting SAC business students to attend the annual Careers Conference Day today, April 27.

Long Beach State will host all students interested in business careers, with the conference beginning at 1 p.m. in the Little Theatre located on the southeast corner of the campus.

Top-notch businessmen from leading firms in the Greater Los Angeles area will speak, and students will have a chance to talk with these men personally. Canfield is on the professional committee for Psi Kappa Alpha fraternity.

Campus Newspaper Again Wins Top Honor From Columbia University

El Don has again won Columbia University's top honor, the "Medalist Award", according to word received today by Carl Venstrom, Chairman of the department of journalism at SAC. The award was received this week.

The New York university presents the awards twice each year, with judging based on news coverage, make-up, editorials, sports, features, proper use of English and adherence to policy.

The SAC campus newspaper, dating from Easter of last year to Thanksgiving of this school year, was judged in competition with campus newspapers from the entire nation by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, and awards were given to not more than the top ten per cent in each class.

Superior News

A written comment in the official scorebook states, "Your superior news coverage brings you the All-Columbian award for news this year."

With 923 points from a possible 1000, El Don was also commended for its eye-arresting front page make-up and good sports stories.

The SAC newspaper has consistently won national recognition in competition with other college papers, and has been granted many of Columbia's "Medalist" awards since El Don was founded 31 years ago.

Spring Issue

Managing editor for the spring issues judged was Lorraine Elam, and Walt Taylor was the fall term managing editor.

Fall Semester

Staff members working with Walt Taylor on the fall newspapers included Carl Sawyer, sports editor; Don Mitchell, feature editor; and reporters Derek Lovett, Dick Church, Barbara Kramp, Sharon Boucher, Louis Barreto, Bill Glassman, Betty Lewis, Ellie Hannaford, Jim Davis and Connie Moore.

Printing of the El Don is done in the Santa Ana city schools print shop under the direction of Richard D. Smith, former newspaperman.

Dramatists Take Show On Road

"Queens of France", one act play which was presented at Bill Cook gymnasium March 15, will be presented at Santa Ana High School April 19.

The same cast will appear in SAHS as at SAC. Michael Halloran plays the lawyer, Monsieur Cahusac; Karole Krupp plays Marie-Sidonie-Creasaux; Nancy Neumann plays Hadame Pugeot; and Donna Stark plays Madame Pointevin.

College 'Missourians' Upset Mock Conventions

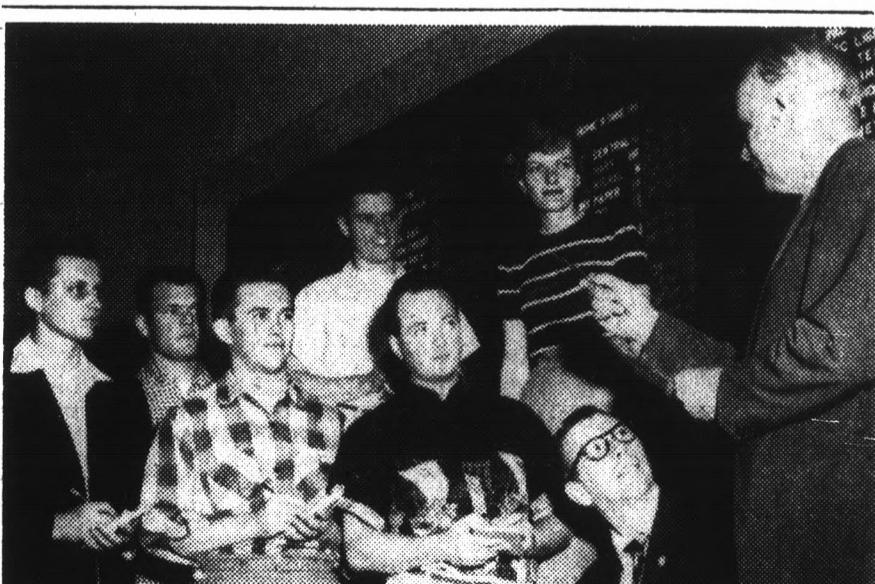

By Don Mitchell

Santa Ana College political science students upset two mock political conventions at USC while they were representing Missouri in both the Republican and Democratic presidential nomination conventions, last week.

The Missouri GOP delegates nominated Gov. William G. Stratton of Illinois for vice-president and caused a rucus among the large school delegates who were trying to vote Richard Nixon into the position. Because of Missouri's unexpected nomination three ballots had to be taken to get Nixon the endorsement. President Eisenhower was nominated by unanimous acclaim on the first ballot.

Missouri Democrats saw Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri nominated for vice-president to run with Adlai Stevenson on the Democratic ticket at Saturday's convention. The delegates from the "show me state" walked out however, before the convention was over because of time wasted by other delegates, who SAC students accused of "too much medicine making" on the convention floor.

Ernest Crain, political science instructor, Sam Peden, Duane Bullard, Art Till, and Don Mitchell filled the Democratic delegation from Missouri.

SAC Can Have Limelight

Santa Ana College will be stepping into Southern California public limelight soon with the advent of the Science Fair that will be exhibited on campus in May.

This will afford the college some good publicity. It will also give visitors a chance to see the college serving its community and other towns.

SAC has excellent facilities for conventions and the college has set a precedent locally by holding Business Education Days and Fine Arts Week. SAC is becoming known for its academic and cultural exhibitions. There is no reason to stop here.

USC held political conventions this week. They had a good idea at USC but it was not handled well. Santa Ana College should put on conventions of this sort each year. Political conventions can only be held once in four years, but a Model United Nations for junior colleges only, could be held with great success.

Model State assemblies, senates and national legislature conventions could be held. There are a host of other educational activities that can be promoted. El Don's motto: "With One Aim—To Serve Students and College," is the ideal guide for the college.

New areas of education by participation are being discovered each year. Let's get into some of them.

420 Gallons Of Soap Used Cleaning SAC

By Sharon Boucher

Either Santa Ana College is very clean or very dirty!

At least one would come to that conclusion after reading a requisition for supplies sent to the Santa Ana school board by LeRoy Rice, SAC's head custodian.

The list of supplies for a year include 96 gallons of household bleach, 15 gallons of window cleaner, 48 gallons of disinfectant, and 420 gallons of soap for cleaning floors.

Besides waxing, polishing and cleaning, SAC's nine custodians change 1202 light bulbs a year, mend torn window shades and fix stubborn locks.

SAC's custodians stagger their hours from 6:30 a.m. to 11:30 p.m. Dorthea Campbell, the only woman in the Santa Ana city schools custodial system, is on the job from 2:30 to 11:00 p.m.

"The hardest work in our department comes in the summertime," Rice says. "We do our spring housecleaning during the summer vacation when everything gets a thorough cleaning and polishing for another school year."

Tavern Post Nears Windup

"Tavern Post has been printed and will be bound this week," Jean Cottrell, editor, announced today. "It will be distributed to the student body the first of May."

Cover for the Post was designed by Hal George, artist and former Commissioner of Publicity. Sam Peden, business manager, will supervise distribution.

ARMY GRAD WRITES TO ...

Dear Miss K. and Mr. M., After spending three truly wonderful years in our well established school of thought control, the United States Army, it is with no little pleasure that I am able to read the school paper, finding that even those who have not had the experience of such an education at government expense can still grasp the fundamentals and carry forth an all embracing program to win the unfortunate majority over now to save them from agonizing adjustment later. It is even more gratifying to see the SAC faculty and the SASC standing with you in the promotion of creeping regulation, striving for the goal of total conformity. To learn further that the Majority are also with you brings me no end of joy. Oh, that the rest of the schools in the United States were abreast of the development here at SAC: no longer would there be talk of subversion in our schools, teachers could be trusted, and students would end up as model citizens.

Mr. M's statement CARDS HAVE NO PLACE ON THE CAMPUS is a masterpiece of original thought. Who else could have given this to the world? Think, if we are able to eliminate cardplaying here at SAC, we can truly claim to be the leader in progress, and all will legislate immediately to copy our example. But our glory will never die, for history in her unflinching tale will ever let it be known that we were the first. No doubt Mr. Hoiles could have this written into the Ten Commandments. The Golden Rule, and the Declaration of Independence, and the El Don will become Southern California's second most consistent newspaper.

Miss K. also gives a convincing argument. If the Majority are unable to save our glorious school organizations from oblivion, then why should the Minority remain strong and healthy and different from us. Dialectically, how can we reach our goal of conformity and of giving only good impressions if we tolerate something different?

"With one aim—to serve student and college." Who could be brash enough to deny that you do not recognize your responsibility and are ever-ready to fulfill it every moment of every day. You are indeed servants!

Still some may ask, why a new rule, if the old ones are not enforced? These are the wrong thinkers and the evil doers who have not come to realize the end and means of law. They must be converted so as never to question, only accept, for you shall serve them well.

And then, comrades, I see your memorial here on campus, and its inscription shall be read and repeated forever and ever and ever:

Our devotion to Le square and La vamp,
Rusty Dee Mitchell and Dusty Bee Kramp.

I, too, shall join our illustrious comrades in greeting you with a resounding, Chort vas me!

Der brave Konformist,
Lynn H. Maxson

Youthful Naturalists Beat Bicycle Trail To Lurette's Nature Display

Two-wheelers parked around building "L" almost a afternoon doesn't mean that college men have reverted to bicycle riding. The bicycle brigade are young friends Henri Lurette, SAC science instructor, who come to discuss the care and feeding of snakes, lizards and skunks.

"An interest in nature lasts a long time if started early," Lurette believes, so he has invited neighboring children to visit his office, laboratory and adjoining nature room after school hours and bring specimens for identification.

Conservation Stressed
To teach the children the importance of conserving our life, they are encouraged to collect live specimens whenever possible. With a more permanent room for the nature display, Lurette believes that SAC could have the best exhibit of plants and animals in the county. Lurette's specialty is Orange county marine life.

Nature Guide
Besides inviting classes and individuals to visit his office, Lurette talks to PTA and other groups of parents on study nature with their children. He also takes field trips with groups of Boy Scouts who are working toward merit badges in nature. He is chairman for field trips of the Sage and Sea Audubon Society and leads them on nature jaunts.

Latin American Students Combine Efforts To Conquer English Lingo

By Dick Lloyd

Among the 23 students in Carl Venstrom's English 75 class are four students who are learning to speak a new language — ENGLISH. And although each one of them has difficulty in communicating his or her thoughts, there is nevertheless, a great admiration common between them for the United States, and a thriving determination to acquire an education.

Because the course requires a large amount of oral presentation and response, there has developed a unity between the students and a desire to help each other with the problems incurred in learning English.

This is particularly true of the foreign students, Elsie Gamboa, from Yucatan Mexico; Mercedes Escudero, from Caracas Venezuela; Alfred Laguna, from Tijuana Mexico; and Rodolfo Arauz, from Costa Rica.

Business Careers

While each of these foreign students has come to SAC under different circumstances, they each have much the same purpose. Miss Gamboa and Miss Escudero both wish to become bi-lingual secretaries in their native countries for American business firms. Alfred Laguna is taking studies which will enable him to enter the business world, and Rodolfo Arauz is planning to join the U.S. Army and also wishes to learn flying.

English 75, Functional Speaking and Writing, is a course primarily designed for terminal students to give them a better understanding of English in its practical use. This is accomplished through the combination of spelling drills, vocabulary drills, speech practice, oral reading, and theme writing.

Variety of Students

In addition to the four foreign students, Mr. Venstrom's English class also includes twelve shop students, four adults working for high school diplomas, and three terminal business students.

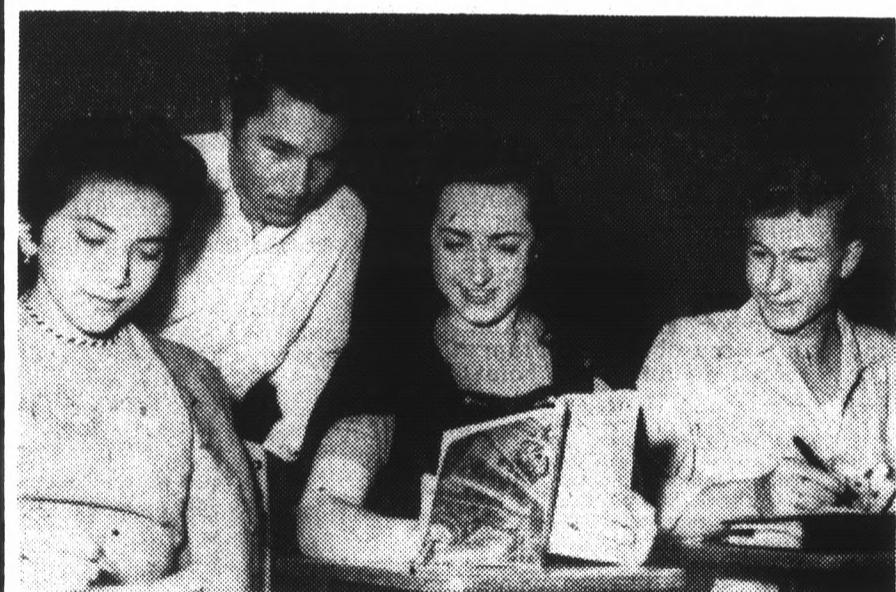

Most of these students do individual reading and writing work that correlates with their major interest at SAC. This variety of work by the different students makes report assignments an interesting experience for the whole class.

MUSIC QUINTET GOES TO UCLA

SAC's woodwind quintet will represent the college at the Southern California junior college music association festival at UCLA tomorrow.

The quintet is composed of Jim Deshler, Bill Hunden, Ernestine Wilson and Kay Hamilton. Kay Hamilton will also play a bassoon solo.

On April 17 the quintet will furnish dinner music for the Orange County school trustee association dinner to be held in the SAC student union.

DEDICATIONS HIGHLIGHT SCIENCE FAIR

Highlighting the first annual Science Fair at Santa Ana College May 3, 4, and 5 is the dedication of the new science building, Dana King Hammond Hall and the Bill Cook Gymnasium.

Judging and preview sessions will be held Thursday, May 3, followed by a school day program on Friday, permitting thousands of science students to visit the fair from schools throughout the county.

Both Dana King Hammond, first president of SAC, and Bill Cook, a staff member since 1927 and SAC athletic director will be on hand for the dedication ceremonies.

GAIL SMITH LIKES LIFE AT THE SEA

By Sharon Boucher

No wonder Mrs. Gail Smith, English instructor at SAC, doesn't mind the 26 mile drive to and from Dana Point each week day, for evening and week ends she has the blue Pacific at her feet.

Living high on a bluff, Mrs. Smith and her Orange County Chief Deputy District Attorney husband, J. Parley Smith can watch the ships at sea or, in the evenings, glance occasionally over their books and maps and freighter schedules, at the dancing lights of Oceanside or the bright reflection over Point Loma down San Diego way.

And what does Mrs. Smith day dream about when she is traveling back and forth? More travel! The week end study of maps and freighter schedules is the preliminary to a proposed trip to Europe.

"I also want to go deep into Mexico again sometime, and perhaps stay in Mexico City and attend the university there."

On the more stay-at-home side, Mrs. Smith is an avid antique collector. "Although that hobby has gone about as far as it can," she says. "When you get so many in your house won't hold any more."

She also sews and has worked in ceramics, but just now, armchair travel occupies most of her spare time, and soon, she hopes, she'll find that her dreams have come true.

Longshot Dons Tackle Mt. SAC

Santa Ana's baseball nine, dwelling in the cellar of the Eastern Conference horsehide race, travel to Mt. SAC today to engage the Mounties, who to date have only one defeat to their record. Mt. SAC was tied with defending champ Orange Coast for the top spot in the standings prior to the contests played on Tuesday.

PCC OPENS

The Pacific Coast League did not enjoy the best kind of weather for opening day Tuesday, but played six games nevertheless.

Hollywood, having only two more years at Gilmore Field as it stands right now, may some day have an opening day in Orange County, as it has been brought out that with a suitable playing site the Stars might move to Anaheim. Their lease on the playing rights at their present location runs out in 1958 and isn't expected to be renewed.

In this year's flag race, Seattle, last year's winner, is again picked to win the flag, with stiff competition from Hollywood and San Diego.

BERDOO SECOND

In recent statistics sent out by the National Junior College Athletic Association, San Bernardino Valley College basketball team was rated the second best defensive team in the country.

Erie Tech of Buffalo, New York was tabbed top defensive five. The New York squad on an average allowed their opponents 52.3 points per game while the EC champs, San Bernardino, gave up 55.3 points to their opposition on the average.

INTERSCHOOL SPORTS

Main holdup thwarting an organized interschool basketball league so far has been a shortage of time in which the teams could play. Several teams have now formed but few games have been played.

A ONE FOOTE PUTT — Dick Foote, leading golfer on the SAC golf squad, tees off for a practice round. The Don team has only one defeat on their record.

Fullerton Tops Don Golf Team

Santa Ana's par shooting golf squad were pushed off the top rung of the Eastern Conference ladder last Monday by a red hot Fullerton team, 12-3.

Previously picked to not only surpass conference competition, but to give all Southern California teams a run for their money, the Dons will now have to come from behind to overtake Fullerton and capture the Eastern Conference crown.

The Fullerton upset, the only loss marring an otherwise spotless record, dropped the golfers to second place in league standings.

OC, Chaffey Blast Dons To League Cellar

SAC's diamonders were able to score four tallies in the contest played at Memorial Park Tuesday, but fell short as Chaffey downed the home team by a 14-4 count. Chaffey held the Dons runless in the initial six innings of the contest while connecting for fourteen hits and scoring as many runs.

Drop Coast Game

The Don horsehiders, after dropping a contest to conference leader Orange Coast, hoped to leave their string of losses behind them upon returning from their vacation, but Chaffey upset the plan. The only markers SAC was able to garner from the OC nine were the result of a three run four bagger by Don Atkins.

Former All-CIF pitcher Gold of the Chaffey Panthers had his curve ball working to perfection as he held the home aggregation runless. SAC was able to score four tallies off relief hurler Otterman in the lucky seventh. Gold and Otterman shared in striking out seven Dons.

Radford Triples

Right-fielder Don Radford unloaded a triple with the bases loaded in the seventh to bring home three markers and then was scored by a single by Luis Valdivia. To start the rally Connie Moore walked, Gene Hunden was awarded first on an interference by the catcher, and Frank Grizzelle drew a pass to set the stage for Radford's base-clearing blow.

First-baseman Frank Grizzelle continued to lead the Don hitters at the plate, going two for three to raise his average to a respectable .466 mark.
